On October 3, 1978, a routine inspection of SCP-Carlstadt was conducted. Ron Corcory and myself conducted the inspection tour, accompanied by Mr. Barnes of SCP. The following observations were made:

1. Several thousand drums of chemical waste are currently stored on-site. Storage is sloppy, with chemical waste spilled or leaking on the ground, in all drum storage areas.
2. At point (A) on the creek bank, a liquid, similar in appearance to fuel, can be seen seeping from the creek bank into the creek water. This liquid floats on the surface and is multi-colored like gasoline. Mr. Barnes said that this seeping has been occurring for a long time and he does not know what the material is or where it is coming from.
3. In area (B), clean fill has been placed and graded. Mr. Barnes indicated that as more drums are removed, the vacant areas will be filled and graded.
4. At the time of inspection only one distillation apparatus was operating. The second apparatus was down for repairs.
